The Effects of Anger Management Skills Training on Aggression, Social Adjustment, and Mental Health of College Students

Entesar Foumany GH. and Salehi J.

ABSTRACT:
Anger is a sign that evokes aggressive behavior.

Keywords:
Aggression, Mental Health, Anger Management
The Amount of Happiness, Depression, Salary, Education, 2013

The main purpose in this research is investigating the relationship between return, risk and stock trading volume. It is found that between return and risk there is a unidirectional relationship and between trading volume (trading turnover) and return is a reciprocal relationship.

The present study is conducted with the aim of comparing the amount of effectiveness of holistic versus traditional education in increasing education enthusiasm. Instructed with integrative way, the education progress of the experimental group is higher than control group instructed with traditional way.

Creativity, Torrance (figural) Tests of Creative Thinking (TTCT), Teachers' Training

Preschool Education, Social Compatibility, Educational Achievement, Bilingualism

Sale, Car Characteristics, After – Sale Services, Saipa & Iran Khodro Products.

The purpose of present study was to investigating the meditational role of emotional regulation in the relationship between academic adjustment and marital satisfaction. The results showed that emotional regulation, can rebound pure academic adjustment. Suggestions and implication for future research are also proffered.

Providing useful information concerning company's profitability is an objective of accounting and financial reporting on the one hand. But the research results suggest the existence of a weak significant relationship between the variables. Some suggestions regarding the topic of the research are given too.

Systematic risk (Beta) is one of the most effective factors in predicting the appropriate required rate of return of assets. But research results suggest the existence of a weak significant relationship between the variables. Some suggestions regarding the topic of the research are given too.

Happiness affects employees' performance, increases productivity, improves quality of services and enhances it. This effect is based on the presence and the intensity of depression. The statistical methods used in this study were t-test and variance analysis that are carried out separately.

Today, the role of assessment and monitoring systems is completely known in improvement and progress of organizations so that the efficiency and productivity of the company is increased. At the end of the study also offers the Ilam Agricultural Jihad Organization, is presented in order to research subject.
The present study has been carried out by aiming at a comparison between capabilities of female and male principals in primary schools in variables of three-fold administrative skills including general-maturity and leadership skills.

The current study is aimed to identify and examine the factors limiting development of virtual courses in Hormozgan University; educational factors and human factors are over-effective in the establishing of virtual courses respectively.

This study aims to investigate the effect of cooperative learning on the confidence. This Study was a quasi-experimental design which was performed on 60 students and its results showed that cooperative learning increases the confidence in girls more than boys.

The main purpose of this research is to identify and investigate the influence of institutional ownership on the growth opportunities and dividend policies. The results showed that there is a significant relation between institutional ownership and growth opportunities and dividend policies.

This study was performed to determine social-cultural polygamy-related factors. This is a descriptive-correlational study which was conducted on 200 students and its results showed that sexual beliefs are effective as a subjective factor.