Assessing the Effects of Auditing Institutions’ Size and Type of Auditors’ Opinion on Auditing Institutions’ Rotation

Original Research, D28

Abdoli M. Mahmoudzadeh A. and Darvishan M.

ABSTRACT:
Nowadays, not only in academic areas but also among the ordinary people and organizations, auditors’ independency is highly emphasized. An audit is a formal assessment of a business or individual’s financial statements. Auditors must be independent of those they audit, to ensure that their assessment is not biased. Auditors may have conflicts of interests and, therefore, may be influenced by the entity they audit. The audit report is a formal document that summarizes the auditor’s findings. The type of auditor’s opinion is also an important factor that can influence the auditing institution’s rotation. The size of the auditing institution can also affect the rotation process. This study aimed to assess the effects of auditing institutions’ size and type of auditors’ opinion on auditing institutions’ rotation.
