Tax revenues from legal entities are one of the important sources in state tax revenues. Since these entities record their income, expenses, and other economic activities, it's crucial to ensure accurate financial statements. However, there are distortions in the tax system, such as tax evasion, which significantly affect tax revenues.

According to the direct tax code, financial statements should be prepared based on Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (GAAP). These statements should reflect the true financial position of the entity, including both expressed tax and diagnostic tax. In other words, the results of hypotheses show markedly the role of distortions in tax evasion.
