Measures Taken by Iran to Prevent Transnational Organized Crimes and its Estimated Position Compared to the UN Criminal Policy

ABSTRACT:
Transnational Organized crimes are being considered as one of the most important problems of the 21st century. These crimes are related to the economic and social interests of different countries and they can be considered as one of the most serious problems of the 21st century. In the current study, the measures taken by Iran against transnational organized crimes and its position compared to the UN criminal policy are examined. It is concluded that Iran has taken measures against transnational organized crimes and has designated an independent body of strategies. However, it is necessary to pay attention to the implementation of the strategies and to increase the effectiveness of the measures taken. The results of the study show that Iran has taken measures against transnational organized crimes and its position compared to the UN criminal policy.
